Finding the Future – The Case of the Changing Workforce

Speaker: Kim Beattie – Friday 30 October

Across the sector, organisations are facing increasing challenges attracting the people, skills and leadership needed for the future. Candidate expectations are evolving, succession risks are growing, and traditional recruitment approaches are no longer guaranteed to deliver the talent organisations need.

This interactive workshop will explore today's workforce challenges, uncover what future ready organisations are doing differently, and investigate how talent, leadership and succession planning can strengthen organisational agility.

Together, we will consider how employer reputation and forward-thinking approaches can help organisations prepare for what's next. You will leave with practical insights, fresh perspectives and actions to help future proof your organisation in an increasingly competitive and changing environment.

About the Speaker: Kim Beattie

Kim joined EVH in 2016 with over ten years' public sector HR experience. She has worked across HR and recruitment, supporting member organisations with recruitment, employee relations, organisational change, workforce planning and policy development. Kim now leads EVH's recruitment team, delivering end-to-end recruitment and selection services, including senior management and governing body appointments, to not-for-profit organisations across Scotland.
